EDUC 523 - Diagnostic Teaching
Focuses on teaching that attempts to identify the student’s level of performance and all the relevant information that contributes to that performance. Involves analysis of material to be learned and implementation of instruction that integrates the learner’s cognitive and emotional development with the appropriate part of the knowledge or task to be learned. Investigates various learning styles, including field-dependent/field-independent, convergent/divergent thinking, right/left brain activity, reflective/impulsive personalities, risk-taking/cautious, and attention to focus of control. Includes analysis and application of generic influences on cognitive, social, emotional, psychomotor, and physical aspects of learning. Investigates curriculum in terms of its psychological nature and selection and development of instructional strategies that enhance learning and prevent learning problems. Provides opportunities to work with elementary and secondary school students in the Drexel Diagnostic Mathematics Learning Laboratory.
